

WORLD RECORD TESTING RULES

Any individual can set and hold an AYYA World Record; they do not have to be a member of the AYYA. There are three age categories; Open (all ages), Junior (14 and under), Masters (50 and over).

1. Submissions must be filed using the AYYA World Record Submission Form.
2. A competitor can only have one attempt per trick, per contest.
3. Any commercially available yo-yo may be used for any record attempt, (but the axle type must match the axle type specified in the sleeping events.) This is any yo-yo sold at least 1 week prior to the attempt, to the general public by a retailer other than the manufacturer with a production run of at least 100. A retailer is any storefront or internet store not owned by the manufacturer. No modifications are allowed to the yo-yo; tuning is allowed as stated below. The string length must be between 32 and 42 inches measured from the finger down to the rim of the yo-yo. The string cannot be rigged, but it can be waxed/treated. Wearing of finger protectors and gloves is allowed, as long as the string is not attached to the protector or glove.
Note: The yo-yo can be "tuned" but not "modified".
 - Tuning definition: Changing of any yo-yo string, sanding the string slot and/or removing friction return pads or similar type of device, addition or removal of lubrication, changing gap width, changing out axles, adding or removing ball bearings, removal or addition of side lens or pogs or weight rings. Any components that are used in tuning the yo-yo (string, axles, bearings, weight rings, pogs or len) must be commercially available, but does not have to be of the same brand as the body of the yo-yo. These components cannot be modified (altering the shape, weight or size).
 - Modified definition: Altering the shape, weight or size of the yo-yo body or the addition of components to the yo-yo that are not covered under tuning.
4. Records can only be set during an AYYA sanctioned or recognized event. This event must be a publicized public contest open to all competitors with at least 20 people in attendance (players and/or spectators). The contest director must be at least 18 year of age. The AYYA board can recognize an event for record-breaking purposes without granting official AYYA contest sanction.
5. If an individual breaks one of the records, that entire record attempt must be videotaped and submitted without edits. It can be sent using any of the in the mail on DVD or email a youtube link. All submitted video become property of the AYYA and are non-returnable. If the video does not clearly show the attempt in a fashion that it can be fully judged, the submission will be disqualified.
6. The contest director, head judge, or an AYYA board member present during testing must completely fill out the submission form, verifying that the judges, person breaking the record, and the yo-yo used are all official and meet AYYA requirements for the record broken.
7. Once a record attempt has begun, the contestant has a two-minute grace period to restart if needed. After two minutes no further restarts of that trick are allowed.
Example: If you are attempting to break the Eli Hop record, and you miss the string after 42 hops.....but only 58 seconds have elapsed, you can start over. Once the two-minute mark has passed, you can no longer start again.
Note: If you break the OPEN record in under the two-minute grace period, you cannot start again to try and beat it by even more. The broken record is recorded. If you break the Junior or Masters record, and you are a junior or masters player, you have the option of trying again, but if you do, the last attempt will be your official total. (so if you have the record, but try to do better, and fail, you get the lower total)
8. All judges must be at least 18 years of age. There must be three judges counting, or two judges with stopwatches. Judges must initial their counts on the World Record Submission Form. The official count will be the average of the three judges' count, or in sleeping events, the average of the two times. The world record committee can accept this as the official count and certify the record or review the video for an official count. The committee decision is final. Once the record has been certified or denied, there will be no further counts or video reviews. The committee must do a video review if the record is broken by less than 1%. If there is a discrepancy of more than 3% of one judge from the average of the other two judges, then that judge's count will be dropped and the other two judges average will be used. If there is a discrepancy of 3% from all three judges, the middle value will be submitted.

If a record is broken, the contest director can send the information to the Records Chairman for official verification. Please send the submission in as soon as possible following the event. It must be received no later than 90 days following the event or it will be disqualified. It is recommended that you send the package priority mail with a return receipt or email the submission. The AYYA is not responsible for lost or misdirected mail. Please keep a copy of the information in case the USPS loses the package in transition.
